

Exploring Nature in Your Neighborhood

Go outside and find an area that supports different types of animal and plant life. Places might include your yard, a nearby park, or your school grounds. Spend time observing your natural area. In the space below, track the movements of the animals, insects, and plants in both words and drawings.
