

Let's Take a Trip: Design a Travel Brochure or Advertisement

Create a persuasive advertisement or a travel brochure using a landscape of your choice. Be sure to include the following:

1. A short paragraph persuading the public to visit the location. This could include a description of the landscape, activities that visitors could do while there, or information about what makes this place special.
2. Sketches of the artwork or drawings that illustrate what visitors can do in this place.

Need help with getting started? Choose either Albert Bierstadt's Wind River, Nebraska Territory (1861) or View from Faraway of the Pyramids (nineteenth century). In the space under the images, describe the landscape and make a list of activities you could do in this place. Have fun!
